Invitation by the ICLEI Secretary General and the Mayor of the City of Malmö

Dear Potential Sponsors and Exhibitors,

On behalf of the City of Malmö and ICLEI – Local Governments for Sustainability, it is our pleasure to invite you to Malmö, Sweden on the occasion of the ICLEI World Congress 2021 - 2022.

Held every three years, the ICLEI World Congress is a platform to highlight how local and regional governments, and ICLEI as a global network, are advancing the global climate and sustainability agenda. The event brings together primarily mayors, representatives of local, regional and national governments, as well as local and international organizations including UN agencies, businesses, academia, civil society, and other stakeholders from the international and multidisciplinary community.

So far as the global health crisis permits, the ICLEI World Congress 2021 - 2022: Malmö Summit is planned as an in-person event taking place on 11-13 May 2022 in Malmö, Sweden with selected opportunities for virtual engagement. We are setting up an exciting three-day program featuring strategic high-level dialogues, as well as prioritizing technical visits/workshops, solutions showcase sessions with the focus on sponsors and exhibitors as well as networking opportunities that benefit from and take advantage of active in-person participation. The thematic framework is constructed around ICLEI’s five interconnected sustainable development pathways: Low emission development, nature-based development, circular development, resilient development, and equitable and people-centered development.
Additionally, as a content-rich event, the ICLEI World Congress facilitates learning and idea-sharing, ultimately conveying what sustainability looks like on the ground and what it means for those who translate concepts and goals into policy and action. Participants will share their expertise, resources and ideas and will be equipped to drive local action forward through further innovation and increased capacity.

We expect more than 500 international participants including key decision makers and technical experts to convene at the ICLEI World Congress in Malmö, Sweden as well as virtual attendees.

ICLEI World Congress 2021 - 2022 is an ideal platform to showcase your solutions, elevate your sustainability profile, network with the relevant and engaged audience and turn business ideas into action.

A variety of sponsorship and visibility opportunities have been tailored to cater to different engagement levels. For any inquiries regarding sponsorship and exhibition, we kindly invite you to contact us at world.congress@iclei.org.

We look forward to a fruitful collaboration and hope to welcome you at the ICLEI World Congress 2021 - 2022 in Malmö, Sweden.

Sincerely,

Katrin Stjernfeldt Jammeh

However, in case the global pandemic situation deteriorates, the event might need to be pivoted to the entirely virtual setting, which will mean that the benefits of the physical event listed above might no longer be offered as planned, but alternative solutions will be investigated in order to ensure that your benefits correspond to the value of your contribution.
About the City of Malmö

An ICLEI Member since 1996, the City of Malmö is a climate-smart knowledge city, listed as the fourth most innovative in the world by OECD. Malmö is working actively for sustainability initiatives and is the first city in Sweden that has publicly announced the commitment to implement the UN SDG’s.

With around 350,000 inhabitants of over 180 nationalities, Malmö might be small in size, but big in ambition. The city has adopted a unique approach to sustainability; with environmental, financial and social effects, all forming part of the equation. Everything that happens in Malmö is done with sustainability in mind. New climate-smart city districts are emerging, and old areas are being improved using new environmental technology. And the objectives are ambitious: By 2030 the whole city of Malmö will be supplied with 100% renewable energy.
